Abbeville Man in Atlanta.

Mr. B. K. Beacham has gone to Atlanta to go into business. He is an excellent mechanic and a most enterprising citizen. With one or two exceptions, he has built more houses in Abbeville than anybody, and is well known to our people. Possessing ability and good judgment our people need not be told who to trade with. They only need to be told where he is. Atlanta will offer a larger and better field for his usefulness, and we doubt not that he will meet the success he so much deserves.

We learn that the commission to J. C. Walker as notary public has been revoked by Goyernor Evans. This action, we are told, was taken at the request of citizens. The Clerk of the Court at Abbeville has been or dered to strike his name from the record of notaries public.

Similar action has been taken with respect to some other notaries in other counties.

We are without specifications in these removals, but it is said to be for action in reference to the registration of voters.

Speaking for the Press and Banner we have no sympathy for any movement which has for its object the transfer of this Government to the hands of others than to whom it properly belongs, and if any notary public has attached his official seal to any paper without first being assured that the parties interested have compiled with the law, we think the Governor does [right in removing an officer because of his lack of carefulness. The indiscriminate attaching of official seals to paper, and not merely a certificate that the notary has received twenty-five cents.

The other side is entirely unknown, as it is always turned away from the earth. Some persons argue from this that the moon does not rotate on its axis; but such an opinion implies a wrong understanding or rotation. EFFICIENT WORK.

Supervisor of Registration J. D. Car-

We see that active work has been done by nany Supervisors of Registration in different counties, but we think none of them could have done better than our Supervisor, Mr. J. D. Carwile. Although the requirements of he law have been most difficult of complib. Carwile. Although the requirements of the law have been most difficult of compliance, yet he has remained at his post during all the hours prescribed by law, giving out tickets, answering questions, explaining to applicants the requirements of the law, and telling them how to proceed. The white men who crowded his office, and the great multi-tude of negroes who crowded the window, was obliged to be more or less confusing, to the Supervisor of Registration especially when people had to be told over and over again how to comply with the requirements of the law, but and all this rush, and perfect ignorance as to what had to be done to secure a registration ticket, yet, a large number of renewals were granted, and quite a number of new tickets were issued—probably not less than forty or fifty; about equally devided between whites and blacks. Those who simply wanted renewal tickets, had but gittle, and the Supervisor soon disposed of them—the While we have seen nothing of the angle of the law, are considering a proposition to "register anyhow." One negro was put in the calaboose because he punctuated his remarks with unnecessary and unbecoming "cuss" words.

Hon, W. H. Parker referred to many historical facts in reference to the dangers, privations and sufferings of our forefathers in the early settlement of this country by the whites. He thought it protable that Mr. Haddon's great-grandfather was slain by the same raiding party that seew the Hodges family at Hodges, and that massacred the Calboun family on Long Cane.

No more pleasant or more profitable meeting of the club has been held than was held last Friday night. The club was so much pleased with Judge McGowan's paper that a resolution was unanimously adopted, asking him to write other papers on the same line. He has promised to write one on the "Laurens Lands," connected with which are escapades, love, marriage, divorce and heart-touching incidents.
